

Bench - Dockray

Drawing inspiration from the classic wrought iron benches of the Edwardian Period, this bench has been specially designed for placing in private gardens. With appropriate care, the sweeping lines and curves of the bench will provide pleasure and service for generations to come.

Produced in a medium gauge wrought iron with shaped hardwood timber slats, the seat is shaped for support and comfort and for whiling away the hours contemplating the beauty of your own space.

This bench is specified to resist damage and corrosion, providing for ease of maintenance and longevity.
